Gentlemen: Attention of Mr. Wood, Curator.

If possible the writer would like to secure some of the gold dollars, which were issued many years ago and have now passed out of circulation. He has been informed that occasionally your Society comes into possession of some of these small coins and that at times you have some coins of this kind that you do not care to retain permanently in your collections.

If there is a possibility that we might secure from you some of the gold dollars referred to, we should be deeply grateful and of course pay whatever you deem proper.

Thanking you for your advices, we are

Very truly yours,

Thos. C. Jefferies,
Assistant Secretary.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your favour of February 20th, we have no duplicate gold dollars. In fact we very seldom do have. You can probably get all you want at a price from any of the dealers whose names appear on the enclosed list. You might, also, see if Gutta; Bros.(52 Wall St.) can supply you with these. The price of them has gone up considerably in recent years; and you will possibly have to pay two or three times face value for the common specimens.

Very truly yours,

Curator
